Dear Friend,

As we increasingly rely on computers and the Internet in our daily lives, we also become susceptible to security and fraud problems, as well as potential risks to our children's safety.

To help protect children and teenagers' safety online, I voted in strong support of legislation that increases the penalties for online sexual predators that target children. This plan also provides additional funding to better enable law enforcement agencies to target and go after online sexual predators.

In addition to fighting for tough legislation to help protect families, I believe that it is important that families have the information they need to help protect themselves and their children.

To help families learn more about staying safe online, I am hosting two online safety workshops this March. At the these workshops representatives from the National Cyber Security Alliance, Federal Trade Commission, PA Attorney General's Office, Philadelphia Police Department and the Abington Police Department will offer tips and advice on a variety of online safety topics.

The Montgomery County workshop will take place today, Monday, March 6 from 7:00 to 8:30 P.M. at the Montgomery County Community College, Science Center, Room 214. The school is located at 340 DeKalb Pike in Blue Bell.

The Philadelphia workshop will take place Monday, March 27 from 7:00 to 8:30 P.M. at the Jewish Community Center Klein Branch. The center is located at 10100 Jamison Avenue.

The workshops are free and open to the general public. For more information or to register for the workshop, please call either of my district offices at 215-517-6572 (Montgomery County) or 215-335-3355 (Philadelphia).

Please feel free to share this information with family, friends, and neighbors. For more information on my work in Congress on your behalf, please visit my Web site.

Best wishes,

Congresswoman Schwartz
